There Are Two Sides to Everything

SPORT ACTIVITY SEEN FOR YEAR

National, Sectional and International Contests Will Hold Interest of the World.

OUTLOOK GREATER THAN EVER

New York, Dec. 26.—On the eve of the new year all indications point to another season of great athletic activity throughout the United States during 1915. All possibility of international contests such as featured the past two years appear to have been eliminated as a result of the European war, but national, sectional and international sports and competition will undoubtedly continue to increase in the next twelve months.

Because of the size and population of the country these events will arouse almost as much interest as would be the case were foreign nations represented on track, turf and water.

Schedule makers in scores of sports are busy compiling the lists of dates and events to be held during the spring, summer and autumn of 1915 and in most every instance there is but one reply to the question regarding the outlook: "Greater than previous year." It is the keynote. Apparently sport in all its amateur and professional angles has taken a commanding hold upon America. Although only isolated dates in baseball, rowing, track athletics, automobile racing, football, tennis and golf have been announced, the trend of sport is clearly defined. The boom, which is carrying the American of all ages and sexes into the open, is still far from its maximum development.

National events and championships will also take an added importance in 1915 since they will not suffer by comparison with international contests and foreign fixtures of greater tradition. In fact America will have almost a monopoly on sport since few, if any of the European nations, or their colonies, will have either time or inclination for competition or pastimes next year. The action of the various English sport governing bodies clearly forecasts the temporary abandonment of all the famous European classes.

The Henley regatta and the Oxford-Cambridge boat races have been over for a year at least. Polo is out of the question and the Wimbledon tennis championships most unlikely. Challenges from this country for matches for the polo trophy or the Davis cup will not be even suggested. The Shamrock IV, challenger for America's cup and the prospective defending yacht, Defiance, Resolute and Vanitie are all housed for the winter and it is doubtful if any of the quartet will see a keel next summer. 1915 will be a great year for American sport, but it will be international.

*Now that the voters have banished pugilism from the state of California where for years past the boxing game had enjoyed a lively and profitable existence, promoters of fistie contests, particularly those of championship caliber, must turn south to Louisiana as the only state in the Union where ring titles, in any class, may be lost or won. Great ring battles have been brought to successful issue as well as surprising issues in the Pelican state and ring history is featured with many interesting chapters of star bouts which were decided in the vicinity of New Orleans. Once more the Crescent City bids fare to blaze in the limelight as a center of stirring sporting events and there may be a revival of the famous gatherings of sport lovers which crowded the hostilities in that city a quarter of a century ago.

right of suffrage since the last preceding date at which the registration books were opened for registration may be permitted to vote by making affidavit showing their qualifications in such respect, provided, that they also possess the taxpayer qualification above set forth.

Except as provided in the next preceding paragraph, all voters before voting upon said proposition must exhibit to the judges of said election the required tax receipt, above mentioned, and also the regular certificate of registration, showing qualifications otherwise as an elector. GIVEN under my hand and the seal of The City of Oklahoma City, State of Oklahoma, this 10th day of December, A. D. 1914.
